We wish to express our condolences to the family of William Alvin Cox. We had the great pleasure of working with him at Northern Telecom. He was our electrician extraordinaire. You could always tell where Bill was, just listen for his whistling. His whistling reflected his attitude, always cheerful, always smiling. He would always talk to anyone, cheer them up by telling a joke or two. He could recite poetry. My favourite was his recital of "The Ballad of Robinson Caruso". He new the entire ballad. There were many more. We will always remember and talk about Bill, and fondly remember his cheerfulness. From a special place in our hearts, Lucy Blaskovic and Philipp Art In tribute: THE night was thick and hazy When the 'Piccadilly Daisy' Carried down the crew and captain in the sea; And I think the water drowned 'em; For they never, never found 'em, And I know they didn't come ashore with me. -By; Charles Edward Carryl
